Variety is the "Spice"

Many a well furnished room will gain immeasurably in decorative effect by the addition of some single and novel piece in unique design—a table, chair or a lamp perhaps.

Do not forget that Variety gives "Spice"—adds charm to the artistic beauty of the picture.

Our collection of the novel "filling in pieces," so to speak, has converted even this beautiful store into a veritable museum of beautiful artistic things for home decorations.

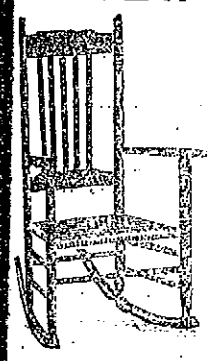

We have not stopped at novelty in old ideas but have introduced much that is genuinely new, that your home may be made a matter of pleasing comment.

It is not to encourage extravagance that we offer these pieces at exceptionally reasonable prices, they are necessary to 20th Century home happiness.

You'll find much pleasure as well as profit in a careful painstaking investigation.

WHITMAN HOPEFUL OF METHUEN NEWS.

Search for Gun Men Who Sent Post Card to Webber.

Murder Trials May Not Begin Until Fugitives Are Captured.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—District Attorney Whitman today hopefully awaited word from Methuen, Mass., regarding Harry Horowitz, known as "Gyp the Blood," and Louis Rosenthal, alias Lefty Louie, the two much wanted gun men in the Rosenthal murder case. Four detectives are searching Methuen high and low for the gun men, who sent a postcard to "Bridgie" Webber.

Webber received the postcard yesterday, enclosed in an envelope. The gambler tore up the envelope. The card read: "Dear Pal: Do the best you can. We are all right. Your pals, L. and G."

The imprisoned gambler showed the card to his counsel, Max Steuer, saying that he was convinced that it was "Lefty Louie's" writing. Steuer informed the state's attorney and prison keepers combed Webber's cell for the bits of torn envelope, which, after much trouble, was re-constructed from the pieces. The envelope showed that it had been mailed from Methuen, Mass., Wednesday night. District Attorney Whitman telephoned to Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty, who at once sent four detectives to Methuen. There were reports today that Horowitz has relatives in Methuen. A reward of $6,000 has been offered by District Attorney Whitman for the capture of the two gun men. The money will be paid for the fugitives—dead or alive.

Mr. Whitman said today that he did not want to start the murder trials until he had captured Horowitz and Rosenzweig unless he had to. The public prosecutor has asked Governor Dix for an extraordinary session of the supreme court to try the Rosenthal murder cases and the governor, it is understood, will appoint Supreme Court Justice Goff to preside. Justice Goff presided at the first trial of Roland B. Molineaux and the murder trials of Dr. Samuel Kennedy and Albert T. Patrick.

Until the arrival of Sam Schepps, now on his way here under guard from Hot Springs, there seemed little likelihood of the development of any startling phases in the Rosenthal case. Schepps is expected here Monday and n his arrival will be arraigned on a charge of murder and placed in the West Side prison along with Rose, Vallon and Webber.

Assistant District Attorney Rubin, who is bringing Schepps back to the city, has sent word that the prisoner will be a useful witness to the state. The public prosecutor has issued orders that no one be permitted to talk to Schepps on his arrival. This order will not apply to Rose, Vallon and Webber Rose is very anxious to talk with Schepps, saying that afterward he is sure that Schepps will be willing t tell all he knows. Schepps and Rose are close friends.

ADD N. Y. ROSENTHAL.

With District Attorney Whitman out of town for the week-end and the grand jury not in session, interest in the Rosenthal murder and its core of police graft centred today in Governor Dix's appointment of Supreme Court Justice John W. Goff to hear the cases in extraordinary session, beginning September 3. Justice Goff's selection at this time comes before all the indictments in the case. Becker alone having been indicted so far for murder, but the district attorney's staff regards the return of the other true-bills as a foregone conclusion. First to be placed on trial, according to present plans, are the gun men. Becker's trial will likely come last.

Justice Goff was counsel for the now famous Lexow committee, which uncovered so much crookedness in the police department years ago, and he has also been an assistant district attorney here. On the bench he presided in many well known criminal cases. He was elected to the supreme court in 1906 and is about 66 years old.

In what purports to be a letter to his brother Robert, Sam Schepps is quoted here today as saying that he will "tell everything" when he reaches New York. Schepps is said to hav received a letter from his brother, in which the brother warned him that it was best to tell the truth.

LITTLE CREDENCE IN REPORT.

Methuen Police Do not Believe Horowitz or Rosenzweig Were Here.

METHUEN, Mass., Aug. 16.—The police authorities of Methuen place little credence in the report that Harry Horowitz and Louis Rosenzweig, wanted in connection with the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, have been here. The postoffice officials were unable to determine whether an envelope containing a postcard had been mailed from here to "Bridgie" Webber, in New York.

JUSTICE GOFF TO PRESIDE.

To Hear Prosecution of Indictments in Rosenthal Murder Case.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug 16.—At the request of District Attorney Whitman of New York, Governor Dix today designated Justice John W. Goff to preside at an extraordinary term of the supreme court, to be held in New York September 3, "for a speedy and vigorous prosecution of indictments which may be found" as a result of the Rosenthal murder investigation. In announcing the designation of Justice Goff Governor Dix in a statement declares that "if there actually exists an infamous crime syndicate," as has been charged, in which "murder had finally become an incident," the facts should authoritatively be determined, "to the extent that everything which has made such a shameful condition possible may be trampled upon and destroyed".

FAILS IN THE SENATE.

Attempt to Pass Steel Tariff Bill Over President's Veto.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—An attempt in the Senate to pass the steel tariff revision bill over the President's veto, led by Senator Simmons, was lost today, 39 to 32. The House had passed it over Mr. Taft's disapproval.

THE RED ARMY MOVES WESTWARD.

Cavalry Encounters With the Blues Occur at Easton.

Mills Concentrates Efforts to Stop Attacks by Smith's Forces.

MANOEUVRES HEADQUARTERS, NEWTOWN, Conn., Aug. 16.—The general engagement with which the Connecticut manoeuvres campaign will end will have its climax in a grand assault by the Red invading army tomorrow, against the strongly entrenched centre of the Blue defending army on the ridges of Newtown and Redding. Practically all the 20,000 soldiers who have been in training for a week in this war area will be thrown into the conflict. Never before in this country have so many men been used in mimic battle since the manoeuvre plan has been used for giving instructions to National Guardsmen.

The plan of the Reds in this main attack will be to march on Brewsters, N. Y., there to make a demonstration against the New York watershed, Westpoint and New York city itself. The preliminary flanking movements, which have turned the Blues out of position, have had the effect of forcing the direction of the Reds slightly to the northward.

The general engagement was begun this morning, when General Smith, the commander of the Reds, attempted to move a brigade of infantry directly west, as was the original intention. General Mills, on being appraised of this, ordered Colonel Parker's cavalry to make a diversion against General Smith's extreme left. This stopped the expected frontal attack along the eight-mile front and the contact brought on simply cavalry encounters in Easton. General Miles did not accept the challenge to move out of his strong position on the ridges on Newtown and Redding, but he let the cavalry bear the brunt of the fight, knowing that they were much stronger than any cavalry force which General Smith could collect.

The fighting was spectacular, but indecisive and, beginning early, it promised to continue all day. Meantime General Mills, having heard that the Red attack was simply a ruse in order to permit opening a road to Brewsters, directed his cavalry to entrench on the ridges and he brought down some 20 heavy guns from Bethel to protect this infantry in their work.

General Smith finally held the brigade, which made up his left wing, in check, and swung it so that it faced northwest. Having received word from New Bedford, Springfield and Hartford that the main army of 200,000, which was landed at the first named place a week ago, was marching to re-inforce his centre, he decided to delay a frontal attack until tomorrow.

General Mills, however, had sent a brigade of infantry to protect Brewsters, but recalled it upon hearing that another provisional army had been gotten together by the patriots in New York and Washington and had already advanced a considerable distance up the Hudson valley to re-inforce him. Learning also that New York was well protected against attack by way of Long Island Sound shore, General Mills decided to concentrate all his efforts to stop any attack the Reds might make along his front. While this plan is theoretical and a development of the scheme which was behind the present campaign, it explains to some extent the failure of both armies to rush into a pitched battle today.

MAJOR GENERAL BARRY CHOSEN

To Succeed Frederick D. Grant as Commander of Eastern Division.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Major General Thomas H. Barry, U. S. A., superintendent of the Military Academy at West Point, has been assigned to command the eastern division, with headquarters in New York, succeeding the late Major General Frederick D. Grant.

Colonel C. P. Townsley, coast artillery, in command of the Portland artillery district, will succeed General Barry as superintendent of the Military Academy. Brigadier General Tasker H. Bliss, acting since General Grant's death as commander-in-chief of the eastern division, returns to his duties as commander of the Department of the East.

SURGEONS IN CONSULTATION.

Paralysis Has Developed in Nat Goodwin's Lower Limbs.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 16.—The condition of Nat C. Goodwin, the actor, who was injured yesterday at Rocky Point, was reported as serious today, at St. Catherine's Hospital. Goodwin was thrown on the rocks when his boat was caught in the breakers. It was said last night that his injuries were of a minor nature.

Paralysis in the lower limbs has developed, according to Dr. Anderson, indicating an injury to the spine. The muscles of the left side also are affected. Dr. Anderson would not say that Goodwin's condition at this time was likely to result fatally, but said that a consultation of surgeons had been called.

It was learned that the young woman who accompanied Goodwin and Captain Hyde of launch Nora was Miss Majorie Moreland, leading lady for Goodwin's last company. She was uninjured.

ROUTE TO NEW YORK SECRET.

Rubin and Party With Schepps Pass Through Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 16.—Assistant District Attorney Rubin and party, taking Sam Schepps to New York as a material witness in the Rosenthal murder case, passed through this city early today. Schepps was asleep in his berth, watched by detectives during the time the train stopped in this city. Rubin said the route into New York was to be kept secret, to avoid, if possible, any interference from "outside interests". Neither he nor Schepps, he added, would make any furthr statement as to Schepps's part in the further investigation of the Rosenthal case.

MOVING PICTURE TRUST ATTACKED.

Firms Accused of Combining to Control Trade.

Bounds Granted by Patents Overstepped by Each Defendant.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16.—The federal government attacked the so-called moving picture trust in a civil suit filed here today for the dissolution of the Motion Picture Patents Company and the General Film Company. Ten prominent moving picture film concerns are accused of combining to monopolize the business, even to the extent of increasing or decreasing the number of motion picture theatres, in which they have no proprietary interest.

Each of the defendants is alleged to have overstepped the bounds of the lawful monopoly granted by their patents, and the petition asks that several complicated interlocating license restrictions tying patents together, be ordered cancelled. The charges are that oppressive restraints and conditions have been arbitrarily imposed on the manufacture and leasing of films and machines, depriving the public of the advantages of competition, especially the competition of foreign films, the importation of which is alleged to be restricted.

Edwin P. Grosvenor, special assistant to the attorney general, who has charge of the pending anti-trust suit against the International Harvester Company, made an exhaustive investigation of the picture business, drawing the petition filed today by United States Attorney Swartley. In addition the bill is signed by Attorney General Wickersham and James A. Fowler, his assistant.

The government's petition says that between 2,500,000 and 3,000,000 feet of pictures are printed each week by manufacturers and distributed to thousands of exhibitors all over the United States. The government declares that a sum greatly in excess of $100,000,000 has been invested in the business. The defendants control, it is added, from 70 to 80 per cent of the film business, furnishing approximately 7,000 exhibitors.

The Motion Picture Patents Company, organized in New Jersey in September, 1908, is the holding company of all the motion picture patents of the defendants. Other than collecting and distributing royalties among the defendants the bill says the patents company's only business is bringing of lawsuits under the patent it holds.

The General Film Company, organized in Maine in April 1910, alleged to be the agency through which the defendants' films are distributed to exhibitors throughout the country, was formed, the petition avers, to monopolize the business of rental exchanges which previously distributed the films. This company it is declared, has acquired the business or cancelled the licenses held from the Motion Picture Patents Company of every rental exchange in the United States, with one exception, at a cost of $2,243,089 in cash and $794,800 in preferred stock.

The alleged unlawful combination of the defendants became effective January 1, 1909, according to the petition, as at that time they were the only manufacturers or importers of motion pictures in the country. Not one of the thousand of exhibitors throughout the United States it is charged, can obtain a motion picture manufactured by any of the 10 defendants' manufacturers unless he had received a license from the patents company, which obligates him to use the films of the alleged combination exclusively.

An exhibitor has to pay $2 a week to the patents company, it is said, on every exhibition machine owned by him, even including machines sold years before to the exhibitor without any conditions being attached to the sale. "Defendants, through the patents company," the petition adds "were enabled to and did determine whether new motion picture houses should or should not be opened and whether old ones should be closed, although defendants had no proprietary interest in such theatres. This power they have exercised and continue to exercise arbitrarily and unreasonably through the patents company."

Each of the 10 film manufacturing defendants have license agreements with the patents company, providing that films shall not fall into the hands of exhibitors who use any but the defendants' exhibition or projecting machines. The patents company agreed with manufacturers of exhibition machines, stipulating that every machine should be sold subject to the condition that it shall be used only for the films of the alleged combination. These agreements, it is said, fixed the selling price of machines.

LATEST VETO UPHELD.

House Fails to Re-Pass Legislative Appropriation Bill.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—President Taft scored a point today in his fight with Congress against the abolition of the commerce court and the fixing of the tenure of government employes under the civil service law at seven years. The Democratic leaders struck a snag when, in their third successive effort to override the President, they sought to pass the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill over Mr. Taft's veto. The vote, 153 to 107, was 20 short of the requisite two thirds of those voting.

As a result a bill will be taken in hand, shorn of the provision relative to the civil service employes, and sent on its way again. The other feature to which the President objected, the abolition of the commerce court, will be left in the measure, but the temper of the Senate on this program is yet to be ascertained. So strong is the sentiment against the tribunal that leaders of both the Senate and House believe that if the President vetoes the bill as changed it can be passed over his objection.

One effect of Mr. Taft's latest veto is to hold up his own pay, that of every member of Congress and every federal judge and every employe of the United States courts. Some leaders have proposed a plan of passing a resolution to extend all last year's appropriation to December and adjourn Congress without passing the bill.

Mr. Taft's message was strong in its condemnation of the way Congress had attached special legislation to an annual appropriation bill. The President said he approved any system of promoting efficiency in the civil service and favored a civil pension system, but he could not approve any legislation to turn out of office employes who had given their best years to the government. The President defended the commerce court vigorously and wrote that opposition to it came from those who had not been in sympathy with its decisions.

In the vote in the House there were many peculiar changes of front on the part of the Democrats and "insurgent" Republicans, the latter's votes having been the deciding factors in passing the wool and steel tariff revision bills over the President's veto. Eighteen Democrats deserted their party on the roll-call, while 13 "insurgent" Republicans voted with the majority. Among the Democrats were O'Shaunessy of Rhode Island, Curley, Murray, Peters and Thayer, Massachusetts, and Rielly, Connecticut.

Republicans who remained with the Democrats on the vote and who have voted with them throughout on the veto roll calls included Mr. La Follette of Washington.

MIDDLETOWN.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

Mrs. Howard G. Peckham, whose face was severely hurt in an automobile accident last week, is still suffering severely form the effects and is under a doctor's care. A part of the injury was so close to her eye that it seemed a miracle that her sight was saved. Of the eight occupants of the car, four of whom were children, no one was critically injured, while no part of the car was broken except the glass wind shield. The entire machine was badly strained and wrenched. The accident, which occurred on Berkeley avenue, was due to skidding, caused by a refusal of the steering gear to act.

Several new silos are being added to the number in town. Mr. Edward J. Peckham of Paradise avenue has one now in process of building which will measure 12 feet in diameter. Mr. William Clarence Peckham has the foundation ready for his second silo, which will be 14 feet. James H. Barker also has the foundation ready for his second, which will measure 16 feet. Edward A. Brown is to have one built as soon as possible. They are found to be a great saving from the dry feeding of cows and are large milk producers.

Mrs. Henry C. Sherman, Jr., of Turner's road is entertaining her nephew, Malcolm Pilsworth, of Worcester, Mass.

The Epworth League lawn party will include a salad supper, to be conducted by Mrs. Mary W. Lawton, president of the Ladies' Aid, assisted by Mrs. James H. Barker, Mrs. Walter S. Barker, Miss Ellen Smith and Mrs. William J. Peckham, Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Wells as the entertainment committee will be in charge of the evening music.

Mrs. D. W. H. Peckham and Mrs. Joseph A. Peckham left today for Sterling, Mass., where they will be guests for several days of their sisters, Mrs. Ermina Farnum and Mrs. C. Louis Terry.

HIGH-WATER MARK IN TENNIS.

Niles, Larned, Johnson and Williams Reach Semi-Final Round of Cup Singles.

High-water mark was reached in the Meadow Club lawn tennis tournament at Southampton, Long Island, Thursday, with Nathaniel W. Niles, Edward P. Larned, Wallace F. Johnson and R. Norris Williams reaching the semi-final round of the cup singles, while two of the pairs won their places in the semi-finals of the doubles.

The youthful Williams was easily the magnet which drew the big gallery to the courts. He met the old Harvard star, George P. Gardner, Jr., and the latter compelled the young clay-court champion to show all his strokes before Williams won at 6-2, 7-5.

Niles, Larned and Johnson all won in straight sets. Niles smothered Frederic C. Colston, the Maryland champion, in a run of 12 games for a love score. Larned put out Harold Nickerson, 6-1, 6-2, and Johnson proved too strong for Alfred S. Dabney at the net, winning at 6-3, 6-4.

In the doubles William J. Clothier and George P. Gardner, Jr., the Eastern champions, won their place in the semi-final round. They defeated Edward P. Larned and Charles R. Leonard coming through by the score of 6-1, 6-3.

Wallace F. Johnson and C. Frederick Watson, Jr., also arrived in the semi-finals in a runaway match against George M. Church and Wendell Kuhn, a young Princeton combination, the score being 6-0, 6-1.

In the second round Niles and Dabney, the old Harvard stars, won a lively match against Joseph Carpenter, Jr., and Alexander Thayer, the Pennsylvanians cracks, at 9-7, 6-4.

The mixed doubles produced some lively sport. The list contained Mrs. Marshall McLean and Mrs. Barger Wallach, formerly national champions. Mrs. McLean paired with Lyle E. Mahan, and the two won their way into the third round. Mrs. Wallach, who paired with Watson M. Washburn, scored as far as the semi-final round.

CHANGE IN KNOX PARTY.

Rear Admiral Reynolds to be Naval Attache of Secretary of State for Mikado's Funeral.

Rear Admiral Alfred Reynolds, commander-in-chief of the Pacific reserve fleet, has been appointed naval attache of the Secretary of State on his mission to the funeral of Emperor Mutsuhito, at Tokio, Rear Admiral Aaron Ward having declined the honor because of ill health and pressure of other business.

Secretary and Mrs. Knox and Ransford S. Miller, chief of the division of Far Eastern affairs, will leave Washington tonight for Seattle, where they will embark on cruiser Maryland August 21 for Japan. The party will be joined at Yokohama by Brigadier General J. J. Pershing, commander of the Department of Mindanao, in the Philippines, who will be military atache of the Secretary. The party will return to America immediately after the funeral.

The plan of having the Maryland steam direct for Yokohama without stop has been abandoned. Under revised plans she will stop at Honolulu for coal.

ABSENTEE MANAGEMENT.

Dangers in Modern Corporations and Classes on a Par With Landlordism in Ireland.

[Iron Trade Review.]

Dr. Lowell, president of Harvard University, has recently pointed out the dangers of absentee management in modern corporations and classes, putting it on a par with the evils of absentee landlordism which has been the curse of Ireland for many generations. "Trusts and corporations," says Dr. Lowell, "are owned by stockholders who employ managers who are sometimes as indifferent to the conditions existing under them as were the merciless overseers in Ireland." The managers, Dr. Lowell continues, know that as long as fat dividends are paid no questions will be asked, while a reduction of the dividends might lead to a change of executives.

The evil of absentee management, however, is not merely a social one. It has been demonstrated frequently in the industrial world that such a condition is often equally inimical to the financial interests of the stockholders. The downfall of the Missouri Pacific railroad from one of the best to perhaps one of the least desirable railroad properties in the West, it is generally conceded, was due to the efforts of the Gould family to manage the property from New York. The Chicago & Alton, another railroad which has not been especially successful of late years, has recently changed presidents and with the change comes the significant announcement that the new president will make his headquarters at Chicago.

There have also been similar examples in the steel business, but at the present time it cannot be said that it is one of the evils from which the steel industry is suffering. Managers of steel companies have learned their lesson and know that their place is at the centre of production. The recent change in the general offices of the Republic Iron & Steel Company from Pittsburgh to Youngstown is significant in this regard, showing that the executives of our prominent steel companies realize they must be in close touch with the mills to get proper results.

Reverting again to the social features of absentee management, it may be said that even paid executives are generally fair and amenable to reason. Also, stockholders are interested in something more than dividends and are beginning to ask questions. The stockholder knows that short-sighted, reactionary management begets trouble, strikes and losses, and manages themselves are seeking peace and prosperity by enlightened labor policies. It is an exploded notion that greed, stubborn standpatism and hoarding of labor will raise dividends. Managers and stockholders alike are viewing corporate affairs in a new light.

ORDERS TO NAVAL OFFICERS.

The Navy Department announces the following orders to officers:

Lieutenant Leigh Noyes, ordered to the receiving ship at Philadelphia for duty in connection with the fitting out of the Wyoming, and on board that vessel when commissioned.

Lieutenant J. S. Woods, detached from the Intrepid and ordered to the Naval Training Station, San Francisco.

Lieutenant I. C. Bogart, ordered to the Naval Academy.

Lieutenant Thomas Withers, ordered to the office of naval intelligence.

Lieutenant H. B. Riebe, ordered to command the Intrepid.

Lieutenant (junior grade) S. E. Hoisday, detached from the Iris and ordered home and to wait orders.

Ensign L. R. Ford, detached from the Baltimore and ordered to the Vicksburg.

Ensign A. S. Dysart, detached from the Paducah and granted two months leave.

Ensign J. L. Kauffman, ordered to command the Hopkins.

Passed Assistant Surgeon J. O. Downes, detached from the Chester and ordered to the bureau of steam engineering.

Chief Carpenter G. A. Lazar, detached from the West Virginia and ordered to the naval hospital, Mare Island, for treatment.

FOR DESERTION AND CRUELTY.

Reginald W. Rives, Well Known as Horse Show Judge, Files Suit for Divorce.

Mr. Reginald W. Rives, formerly a resident of New York and well known in social and business circles, filed suit in Reno, Nev., Thursday, for a divorce from Mrs. Mary C. Rives, granddaughter of the late Edward H. Bulkeley, a stock broker. He alleges desertion and cruelty in his petition, in which are recited many instances which he charges cost him the friendship of men whose acquaintance he valued. Mr. and Mrs. Rives were married in New York June 1, 1887, and have two children, Reginald B. Rives and Miss Helen M. Rives.

According to Mr. Rives's petition, he owns a summer home in Dutchess county while his wife owns the New York city home. In November, 1910, he alleges, she insisted that he leave that home and never return, and steadfastly refused to listen to his pleas for reconciliation. He charges that Mrs. Rives humiliated him in the presence of friends for four years prior to their separation by accusing him before fellow judges of horse shows and others whom he was entertaining of being rough and drunken.

Mr. Rives alleges that his wife refused to meet his business associates, either leaving the home or retiring while they were at dinner. Finally his friends declined to be his guests, he charges. In addition, Mr. Rives asserts, Mrs. Rives persistently endeavored to alienate their children from him, and he declares that her employes would leave on account of interference from her.

Mrs. Rives is a sister of Mrs. Prescott Lawrence and of the late Edward H. Bulkeley who died here several years ago. Mr. Rives is well known in Newport, where he has frequently been a visitor and a judge at the horse show.

MONKEYS ON BOARD SHIP.

The voyage of steam freighter Egremont Castle, which has just arrived at Boston from the Far East, came near being one long nightmare. Forty-one monkeys were taken on board at an eastern point. They refused to answer the dinner bell; they swarmed in the rigging, hopelessly tangling any loose ends of rope they could find; swung on the whistle rope, sending forth blasts of the siren in the dead of night; rifled the galley shelves, and upset everything that wasn't tied down.

PERSONALS.

Sick and alone in his poorly furnished home, William H. Spencer, a San Francisco carpenter, 60 years old, has received news that he is heir to a fortune of $48,500, left by Isaac Spencer, an uncle, who died recently in New Lexington, Ohio. Spencer's uncle accumulated $100,000. His only relatives were a brother and "a nephew out West." Before he died he made a will dividing his fortune equally between them.

Mrs. Sarah Amelia Hewitt, widow of Abram S. Hewitt, who was mayor of New York in 1887 and 1888 and for many years a Representative in Congress, is dead in Ringwood Manor, N. J. Mrs. Hewitt, who was the only daughter of Mr. Peter Cooper, founder of Cooper Union, was 82 years old, and had been in ill health for several months. Although her illness was very serious last winter she appeared to have regained her health until recently.

William Gustavus Fischer, noted throughout the world as a composer of sacred music, died at his home in Philadelphia, after a short illness, aged 77 years. During the original Moody and Sankey revival services in that city he acted as the leader of a chorus of more than 1,000 voices. From 1858 to 1868 he was professor of music at Girard College. Among his most famous compositions were "I Love to Tell the Story" and "Whiter Than Snow."

As a present, the sum of $50,000 has been given by the "Hoosier poet," James Whitcomb Riley, to his nephew, Edmund H. Eitel, who was married a few days ago. The poet, however does not view this as a wedding gift, but has said that it is given more in appreciation of Mr. Eitel's faithful service for many years and sound advice, given as private secretary for Mr. Riley. The gift, coupled with a recent gift of property valued at $70,000 to Indianapolis for a public library, has called attention to Mr. Riley's royalties. Intimate friends say that his poetical works alone have brought him $250,000.

WEST AND EAST.

[Henry Adams Bellows, in Scribner's Magazine.]

A vast new land, half wakened to the wonder
Of mighty strength; great level plains that hold
Unmeasured wealth; and the prophetic thunder
Of triumphs yet untold.

A land of eager hearts and kindly faces,
Filled by the glory of a new-born day;
Where every eye seeks the far-distant places
Of an untraveled way.

Oh generous land! Oh mighty inspiration
That floods the morning of the world to be!
Thy people are the builders of a nation,
Lofty, benignant, free.

Yet, at a trivial word, a star's clear gleaming,
A bird's sweet song, a sunset fading fast,
There comes a longing for the home-land, dreaming
Upon its sacred past.

A land of dear, remembered faces, moving
Through happy days that had to have an end;
Each stream is a companion known and loving,
And every hill a friend.

A longing to behold the mountains, rearing
Their great, gaunt heads; and once again to be
Upon the barren, wind-swept headland, hearing
The surges of the sea.

FANCIES.

Landlord—Do you think your experience as a sailor qualifies you to work as a janitor?

Old Salty—Sure! I've scoured the seas an' swept it with my glass an' I've washed ashore.

"I suppose you are proud of your wife's literary success."

"Yes. Only I wish she wouldn't insist on making the hero of every novel a tall, athletic man with wavy hair and piercing blue eyes, while I am short, fat, bald and compelled to wear smoked glasses."

"You say you spent your vacation canoeing with friends?"

"We were friends when the expedition started."—[Washington Herald.

Gibbs—Stout people, they say, are rarely guilty of meanness or crime.

Dibbs—Well, you see it's so difficult for them to stoop to anything low.—[Boston Transcript.

"It's impossible to live high and save money."

"Did you never occupy a hall bedroom just under the roof?"—[Birmingham Age-Herald.

"What became of your club that advocated the equal distribution of wealth?"

"Some scheming plutocrat broke it up by giving our president $10."—[Washington Star.

Briggs—Some people are so confoundedly bashful they won't even meet their obligations.

Griggs—Well, I am sometimes "shy" myself when it comes to doing that.—[Boston Transcript.

"I am forbidden," said the campaign committee's treasurer, "to accept contributions from any man who is connected with a large and profitable corporate enterprise."

"That is as it should be," replied the idealist.

"Yes. But I don't see how we can get anywhere if we must depend for funds on people who haven't any money."—[Washington Star.

DEBS ON ROOSEVELT.

Debs, the Socialist candidate for President, contributes to the New York Times a rather interesting letter on the progressives, their leader and platform. When Roosevelt was twitted with taking the greater part of his platform from the Democratic party he cheerfully replied: "Of course I did. I took everything except what would qualify a man for an inmate in an insane asylum." So when Debs charges that all the really progressive parts of the Progressive platform were borrowed from the Socialists Roosevelt would probably say: "Certainly. I took from the Socialist platform everything except what would qualify a man to be an inmate of the penitentiary." Debs makes a rather clever thrust at Roosevelt when he says he "has shrewdly seized upon the prevailing popular unrest and has baited his platform like a trap to catch the votes of the discontented people. That could hardly be improved.

As a socialist Debs of course objects that the platform is a capitalistic document, written in the interests of the middle classes, who here as in Europe seem to be the especial target of socialist attack, and designed only to mitigate the features of capitalism in some respects. This of course does not distinguish the Roosevelt platform. All three are capitalistic in the socialist sense, but the Republican and Democratic platforms do not profess to be revolutionary; they are not unfriendly to the existing social, economic and political order. The Roosevelt platform does pose as the opponent, at least in large measure, of these and therefore a closer approximation to socialism might be expected.

Debs says Roosevelt did not act the progressive while he was President and his party is substantially reactionary. He thinks it is made up of too discordant elements to hold together, that it is based on one person instead of on a social or economic system, and he thinks it is bound to shrink as time passes.

THE TARIFF FOOTBALL.

Tariff bills are being passed by Congress and vetoed by the President as a part of the campaign. The Democrats are pretty sure bills which they pass will not become laws, so that it matters little what business effect they might have. The President is probably anxious to prove himself a stiff protectionist and a valiant defender of the manufacturers, with a view to their support.

The President has a right to veto a bill because he thinks it is a bad one, and a protectionist must regard any measure offered by the low-tariff men as bad, but he is hardly justified in making the tariff board a touchstone of legislation. The House certainly has a right to use its own judgment and obtain information in its own way, and the work of the tariff board has not entirely commended itself to persons who would naturally take a friendly view of it.

When the President vetoes the steel bill because it is simply a revenue measure and does not even profess to be protective, he is of course making a direct appeal to the protectionists of the country to give him another term in the White House. All tariff duties are only relatively protective or productive of revenue. Any duty is somewhat protective, and as the steel and iron exports of the past 12 months amounted to $268,000,000 it can hardly be pretended that steel production is an infant industry which must be carefully guarded from foreign competition lest it be extinguished.

The tariff board, or such a commission as the Roosevelt platform calls for, can never take the tariff out of politics. The tariff is politics and must remain such so long as people with varying interests and opinions elect Congressmen and Congress fixes the duties. Every man will support the Congressmen who vote duties in accordance with his opinions or his interests, and it is a waste of time to talk about a scheme which shall scientifically and automatically regulate duties by unanimous consent of persons variously affected thereby, but ready to sink all personal and local interests in whatever this board or commission may think is the general welfare.

MAKE THE GOOD WORK PERMANENT.

There seems to be at present a wave of movements for temporary improvements in connection with municipal housekeeping. These are useful, but they awaken the inquiry why these efforts can be made permanent, instead of being for only a day or a weeks, brief campaigns against the held or have been held "clean-up" days or weeks, "know your city" weeks(brief campaigns against the house fly, similar attempts to check the mosquito evil, and various other devices to improve the conditions under which the people live or civic activities are conducted. These are to be encouraged and ought to have an important effect on the conditions which obtain in cities and towns, but there does not seem to be any good reason why they should be so brief and spasmodic. They might better be permanent, so that the good results may be gained all the time. The need is continuous and the efforts to remove the causes which contribute to it should also be of a more lasting character.

It may be true that it would be difficult to secure a continuance of the efforts in these directions for any great length of time, when those who do the work are for the most part or entirely volunteers, but it does not appear that it would not be possible to maintain the good work more than a day or a week. Whatever could be done toward making the movements permanent would be so much gain, and it might not be impossible in some places to keep the interest in the work alive to such an extent as to enlist the efforts of the people for a considerable period, even though the interest should languish after a time. It is certainly worth while to make the attempt to establish such improvements in municipal affairs for a longer period than is attempted under the present plans, for what has been accomplished in a day or a week in the direction of civic betterment has indicated what great results along the same lines might be secured if the efforts were continued for a longer time.

The great need in order to accomplish permanent improvements in cities and towns along the line of civic betterment is to interest the people and keep them interested. They have the power to make and keep the places where they live free from those influences which reflect discredit, if they will but devote a small part of their time and energies to the task. The solution of every problem of municipal management and the remedy for every ill which beats a city and those who live within its limits lies with the people, and they can furnish the solution or remove the ill if they will put their hands to the task and pursue it with energy and determination. It is the people who govern, or at least who can govern, in this country if they care to do so. If the affairs of cities or the circumstances of life are not what they should be the fault is primarily with them, for they have the power to change conditions and to improve administration, so that the manner of life of the community and the method of management of city affairs will be all it should be.

The value of these temporary movements towards municipal house cleaning lies in the object lessons which they give of the better conditions which are possible and can be maintained if the people desire them to continue, the concrete examples of improvements which have been made and can be rendered permanent. Such lessons and examples are not so useful as they should be and might almost be considered as failures if the people, after they have become accustomed to them, are to sit idly and wait for something else to turn up, instead of setting to work with a will and determining that there shall be no relapse into former conditions. It is of little use to clean the house for a day or even a week and then leave it to become unclean again, with no effort to improve its condition. It is of little use, also, to clean a city for a day or a week and then do nothing to keep that cleanliness as a permanent condition. Why not extend the time of such movements and start them for a month, a year or a period long enough for the people to acquire the habit of doing what is necessary to make the improvements permanent? Then perhaps they can be firmly established, with no danger of a relapse.

Members of the Senate are beginning to wonder if the action of Congress on the Panama Canal bill will affect the arbitration treaties which the United States has with nearly every other civilized country. The part with Great Britain, which figured prominently in the Senate debates on the no-toll question, will expire by limitation next April and the others are co-terminous with it. In the face of our action disregarding the Hay-Pauncefote treaty as to the tolls, and the general opinion that the Senate will refuse to arbitrate that subject, there is a grave question that Great Britain may finally decide to let the arbitration treaties lapse without renewal. If she takes this step, the other countries are expected to follow her example.

Fall River's tax rate this year will be $19.40 on each $1,000, an increase of 20 cents over 1911 and the highest in the history of the city. The valuation is increased by more than $3,000,000, and yet the demands upon the treasury are so great that the advance is necessary to raise the money. This rate is considerably higher than that of any Rhode Island city, the highest in this state being $17 in Woonsocket and $16.50 in Providence and Pawtucket, Newport's rate, $13.80, is low, comparatively.

J. Edward Addicks, formerly well known in Delaware politics and in certain business transactions, has come to light again, announcing that he is a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of that state. This is his first appearance since 1907, when the Du Ponts put him out of politics, as they thought, permanently. In making the announcement of his candidacy Mr. Addicks says: "I never quit. The time is ripe for the overthrow of the Du Pont machine, and I propose to overthrow it."

President Taft is expected to sign the pension bill agreed upon by the Senate and House, and within the next week or ten days the thousands of veterans and dependents will receive their pensions, which have been held up, because there was no appropriation for them, since the beginning of the fiscal year, July 1.

Colonel Roosevelt, who is to open his political campaign in Providence this evening, has been silent—for him—since the Progressive convention at Chicago two weeks ago and has probably stored up a vast amount of material and new phrases which he will let loose in his speech.

Next week Newport will have the tennis and polo tournaments, with the largest social entertainments of the year. The season is rapidly coming to its height.

The victor in the race for the King's cup is appropriately named—Win some.

FIRST ENGLISH WOMAN WRITER.

Afra Behn Should Have Credit as a Pioneer in the Making of the Novel of Today.

[George Jay Smith, in North American Review.]

Two hundred and fifty years ago there was living in London a beautiful and gifted girl of 20, who had already published a remarkable romance and who was to be for nearly 30 years a professional writer, the first woman who lived by her pen in England. "She was a gentlewoman by birth," says her unknown biographer, "of a good family in the city of Canterbury in Kent; her father's name was Johnson." The girl herself, who was born in 1640, bore a name variously spelled Afra, Aphra, Aphara, or Ayfara, and for literary purposes she often signed herself Astrea.

In the northern part of South America is a country now called British Guiana. It was settled by the English in 1652 and a few years later, perhaps, in 1658, Afra's father was nominated to the post of lieutenant general of this colony, then called Surinam. He set sail "On the disastrous voyage of the West Indies," which he never accomplished, for he died at sea. Afra, as the daughter of the lieutenant general, took up her residence in the beautiful estate of St. John's Hill. She describes the mansion, which was seated beside a river in a cool, shady grove. "The whole globe of the world," she declares, "cannot show so delightful a place as this grove was."

But over the beauty of this idyllic land hung the dark shadow of human slavery; and a dreadful tragedy occurred during the young girl's stay in Surinam and almost under her eyes—the tragedy which forms the subject of her celebrated tale of Oroonoko. I say tale, but it is usually styled a novel by her contemporaries, although it is certainly, in good part, history. Doubtless there is some invention in it, for, as one writer put it, the African Prince Oroonoko is "somewhat fabulous." Our Astrea may have heightened her effects here and there for artistic reasons. But surely the story makes a profound impression of reality, there is nothing impossible or even improbable in the course of its events, extraordinary as they are, and there is little reason to doubt that the author gives the facts of Oroonoko's life substantially as she received them during her stay in Surinam. Perhaps we may call the book, then, historical fiction—the earliest example of a type that has been in recent times exceedingly popular.

Her assiduity as a writer was remarkable. She became a prolific and successful playwright; but of the morality of her plays the less said the better, though it is fair to state that it does not seem noticeably worse than that of the other popular dramatists of the corrupt Restoration period. She continued to produce plays till 1687, two years before her death. She published also poems and a number of so-called novels, the best of which after Oroonoko was The Nun or the Perjur'd Beauty. Oroonoko: or the Royal Slave, as written by Afra Behn, was a book of only 125 small pages.

Compared with what fictions had preceded hers, Mrs. Behn's narratives mark a decided advance toward reality. Such fanciful tales as Sidney's Arcadia, Lyly's Euphues, and Lodge's Rosalynde are by no stretch of language to be called novels. But enough has been given of her Oroonoko to show that it is meant to seem and in part is, a transcript of an actual life, that it is direct and vivid in style, and that it evinces no mean power of portraying character. A full measure of credit, then, should be given Afra Behn as a pioneer in the making of the novel of today.

Health Officers of the State Given Instruction in Modern Methods.

Bather Drowned at Crescent Park Beach—Peculiar Accident to a Motorman.

Health officers from the various cities and towns of the state were given expert instruction at Rocky Point Thursday as to the methods employed at the present time in the prevention of contagious diseases and the care to be exercised in cases of epidemics. Incidentally they were told that typhoid fever is on the decrease in Rhode Island and that the present death rate is barely one half that of other states, Massachusetts alone excepted. The latter statement was made by Dr. Charles V. Chapin, superintendent of health of Providence, in one of the two addresses of the afternoon. Dr. Chapin said that, while this record is one to cause a great deal of satisfaction with conditions, there is still much to be done before the state of perfection can be attained which obtains in European cities, where the death rate is only one half or one third as great as here. The event was the fourth annual meeting of the health officers, and hardly a section of the state was unrepresented. In addition to the address given by Dr. Chapin, Dr. Gardner T. Swarts, secretary of the Board of Health, gave a talk on practical methods in producing and delivering pure milk. The address was illustrated by a number of lantern slides and this method of treating the subject appealed strongly to his audience. The slides demonstrated actual conditions on some farms where milk is produced, some on which the surroundings are ideal and others that are hotbeds of germ-breeding.

A young man, about 25 years old, who from papers found in a pocket of his coat is believed to be Alfred Webb of Chicago, was drowned while bathing at the Crescent Park beach Thursday afternoon, before a crowd of several hundred persons, when seized with a cramp in deep water. There were scores of bathers near by, several of whom attempted to save the struggling man. One of the would-be rescuers succeeded in grasping the sinking man, but the latter seized him about the neck and the rescuer was obliged to strike the drowning man to break his hold and save himself. As Webb was going down for the last time two men in a boat succeeded in seizing him by the hair, but their hold was not sufficient to sustain him and he sank from sight.

Alexander Fontaine, a motorman on the Providence and Burrillville line of the Rhode Island Company's system, sustained severe lacerations of the face and hands Thursday evening, when a dangling trolley wire shivered the heavy glass of the vestibule of his car and showered the fragments over the man at the controller. He was taken to the Rhode Island Hospital for treatment. Mr. Fontaine has cuts on his cheek and nose, his chin was laid open from the lip to the point of the chin and bits of glass plowed deeply into his hands. It is thought two fingers may be broken. He was unable to run his car and the passengers were taken to Providence by Superintendent Brown of the division, who happened to be making an inspection tour on a car which arrived at the scene a few minutes after the accident, and who assumed the duties of motorman.

At a special meeting of the electors of Westerly Thursday the most important matter of business considered was the improvement of the highway between Pleasant View and Weekapaug. A motion that $5,000 be appropriated for the repair of the highway known as Atlantic avenue, leading from the village of Pleasant View to Weekapaug with the understanding that the road be constructed 22 feet wide, was adopted. Another matter considered was the rescinding of the vote passed at the annual meeting May 14 in regard to the assessing and collecting of taxes. The vote as it was previously passed was not consistent with the law governing such actions. The necessary changes had been made and the vote was unanimous. It was then voted that the town treasurer be authorized to convey a part of the town farm, so called, to the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad upon terms approved by the town council. The New Haven road is desirous of constructing a siding on a stretch of land owned by the town and located on the town farm. Action was taken by the electors in regard to marsh lands located between Weekapaug and Pleasant View. There is a purchaser in view for this tract of land. It was voted that the town treasurer be authorized to convey the marsh lands at public auction or by private sale upon such terms as might be approved by the town council.

Dr. Walter S. Kenyon, for more than a quarter of a century a dentist of Providence, died early Thursday evening, in his forty-eighth year. He had been failing gradually for several months past, suffering from a nervous affection. Walter S. Kenyon was born in the village of Centreville in the town of Warwick, June 15, 1865. His early education was obtained in the public schools of his native village, supplemented by a course at the Friends School in Providence. His professional education was acquired at the Boston Dental College, from which he was graduated with honors. His professional career was passed entirely in Providence and in the practice of his profession he attained a high rank. Dr. Kenyon was a member of the American Academy of Dental Science, of the Rhode Island Dental Society, of the Providence Dental Club, and for three years was secretary of the Rhode Island State Board of Registration in Dentistry. He was also a member of the Providence Art Club.

Nearly 100 persons were present Thursday at the superior court house in Providence, under the misapprehension that they ought to be there because of the fact that they were served with process a few weeks ago and made respondents in the proceedings brought by Harriet B. Sprague to secure her dower rights in the real estate once owned by Amasa Sprague, her husband, in his life time. This was the return day named in the legal papers, and owing to the respondents' lack of acquaintance with court proceedings they went to the court house with the expectation that something was to be done. About 300 names were added to the first list of 700 respondents in order to make the bill of complaint conform with the opinion of the supreme court, handed down upon demurrer, to the effect that the bill for setting off dower rights to the widow must include all the parties now interested in the lands involved in the suit. It was from among the additional list of 300 respondents that the delegation was made up which waited around the court house for an hour or two.

Foster's "Old Home Day," the one big day of the year in that quaint old northwestern town in Rhode Island, was celebrated on the grounds adjoining the Baptist Church at Foster Centre Thursday. Addresses by Governor Pothier, General Wilson, chairman of the Republican state central committee; Colonel Ambrose Kennedy, Speaker of the house of representatives, and others, were features of the observance, which attracted a record attendance of more than 3,000 persons from all parts of the state.

MR. WADSWORTH'S APPOINTMENT TO PERSIA.

Among the diplomatic nominations which President Taft sent to the Senate Thursday was that of Craig Wadsworth to be secretary of the American legation at Teheran, Persia. Mr. Wadsworth, who is spending the month at Newport, was formerly connected with the diplomatic service, having resigned in 1909 after having served as third and second secretary of the American embassy at London for seven years.

SEVEN YACHTS START.

Moderate Breeze for the Special Race and Early Finish Expected.

First Contest for the New King's Cup Won by Sloop Winsome.

With a moderate northwest breeze blowing, seven yachts went out to the Brenton's Reef lightship this morning for the race arranged by the Newport Yacht Racing Association as a supplement to the New York Yacht Club's season. It was the last contest of the year for the large boats of the fleet. The starters were schooners Elena and Irolita and sloops Istalena, Aurora, Winsome, Adventuress and Dorelia II.

The cruise of the New York Yacht Club being at an end, the Newport Yacht Racing Association, as for some years, offered prizes for the several racing classes, A and D of schooners and the big sloops. This race gives opportunity for any yachts not in the New York club to compete but for today there were none except those which have been racing with the fleet.

The wind was from about west of north and a fair breeze when it was time for the racers to be under way. As it was a fair wind out, none were in a hurry to start and it was 10 o'clock when the boats began to leave. Besides the racers a large number of steam and sailing craft left the harbor to witness the start. It is likely that many will not return, but will continue to their destinations after viewing the race.

By noon the harbor was pretty well deserted by yachts, there being few in the cove. The small yachts had also generally gone. The Narada acted as flagship for this race and took out a large number of guests. Unlike the two previous races, the guests were chiefly men, and it was noticed that there were in evidence a number of coats, for the wind had a little touch of winter.

The breeze seemed to improve as the day wore along and if it holds as well out where the yachts are racing they should have a good contest, with wind conditions different from any of the previous races of the late cruise, since it is from the north.

The yachts were sent over triangular courses. The schooners and the three large sloops were to cover 35 miles, and a smaller triangle was laid out for sloops Adventuress and Dorelia II.

The wind was blowing 10 miles an hour out of the northwest when the sloops were started at 11:15 a. m. The Dorelia II led the Adventuress and the Istalena was ahead in the large sloop class. The schooners were sent away at 11:20, with the Irolita in the lead and the Elena on her weather quarter.

The first leg was about southeast affording a broad reach, under balloon jibtopsails; the second was another reach, and it was a beat to the finish. The yachts are expected to finish about mid-afternoon.

Mr. B. Trowbridge Hall's sloop yacht Winsome, formerly the property of Senator Henry F. Lippitt, won the race Thursday for the gold cup given by King George V of England. Sailing against a fleet of seven other yachts, some of the fastest in the New York club's squadron, the Winsome, well handled over the course of 34¼ miles by Captain Ed Willis, won this much prized trophy by the narrow margin of 16 seconds from George M. Pynchon's Istalena, a sister ship. It was the more to the Winsome's credit that she started 2 minutes and 30 seconds astern of the Istalena. She had a time allowance of 20 minutes and 13 seconds from the fast schooner Elena and 23 minutes and 10 seconds from the Enchantress, the winner of the race last year, for the former King's cup.

The Shimna was first to cross, 14 seconds after the signal, and was followed by the Aurora, Istalena, Avenger, Elena, Winsome, Irolita and Enchantress. At the first mark, after the windward work, the Istalena had a commanding lead, with the Enchantress, Winsome, Shimna, Irolita, Elena, Aurora and Avenger following in order. When the leeward mark was passed the Enchantress and Elena had taken the lead and the Istalena was still ahead of the Winsome. At the finish the big schooners led and the Istalena and Winsome held the same relative positions.

The Winsome on actual time beat the Istalena by 13 seconds, and the sloops beat the schooners on corrected time by the big allowance given them. The summary is as follows:

Yacht.	Start, H.M.S.	Finish, H.M.S.	Corrected time, H.M.S.
Winsome	11:55:00	4:43:27	4:14:16
Istalena	11:56:03	4:41:06	4:14:32
Enchantress	11:59:00	4:21:33	4:15:08
Elena	11:55:14	4:55:17	4:15:12
Irolita	11:57:52	4:26:21	4:20:01
Aurora	11:59:00	4:31:41	4:22:07
Avenger	11:55:21	4:49:17	4:23:25
Shimna	11:57:15	5:07:03	4:24:48

As soon as the result of the race was known Commodore Blair sent the following cable:

"Lord Knollys, Buckingham Palace, London. On behalf of the New York Yacht Club, I have the honor to report that the race for the cup so graciously presented by His Majesty King George and competed for today for the first time was won by the sloop Winsome, owned by E. Trowbridge Hall of New York, in a spirited contest off Newport under ideal conditions. Will you kindly so inform His Majesty."

The cup is expected to reach New York from England some time this month and will be raced for annually in the cruises of the New York Yacht Club.

Originally it had been planned to disband the New York Yacht Club fleet this morning, but in view of the fact that the Newport Yacht Racing Association had arranged a race for today, and that there might be no apparent clash, Commodore Blair decided to disband Thursday night. This was done, formally, at 6:30, the yachts then being relieved of attention to orders from Vessels Diana.

The cruise has been a complete success in every particular. It was feared that it would not attract the usual large number of vessels, but the way the harbor was crowded when the fleet came in showed that this was an error. The number of yachts taking part in the racing was also large and the competitions were exceptionally good. The weather has been perfect; they have not blown too much and neither have they been becalmed, but on each day there has been a steady breeze, suitable for steady racing without flukes. The result has been very close contests and some new records for speed between ports. It has been a great year for the yachts and Commodore Blair must feel proud of the successful manner in which the cruise has been handled.

So far as could be learned there was but one mishap during the cruise. The little sloop Hermis, Mr. Raymond, carried away her topmast during the early part of the run from here to Vineyard Haven Monday and returned to port and had a new topmast made at the shipyard. Except for this the ship repair men have had nothing to do for the racers, which shows equable winds throughout.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Mr. Carol Aronovici of Providence was in Newport today.

—Steam yacht Agawa, Mr. C. W. Harkness, arrived today.

—Miss Fanny L. Johnson gave a luncheon this afternoon at the Casino grill rooms.

—Mr. C. B. Anderson is visiting his family, who are spending the summer at Campton, N. H.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. Eugene Parsons and Miss LeBrun Parsons of New York are at The New Cliffs.

—Misses Gladys and Dorothy Cushman of Providence are visiting Mrs. George H. Kelley on Bedlow avenue.

—Mr. and Mrs. Pembroke Jones entertained at the Clam Bake club this afternoon in honor of Mr. Henry Walters.

—Mr. John Campbell Chadwick of Omaha, Neb., is visiting Rear Admiral and Mrs. French E. Chadwick at "Twin Oaks."

—Miss Emma Goodwin of Cambridge, Mass., is visiting her sister, Mrs. E. J. Duncan, on Spring street, for a few weeks.

—Steamer Pontiac is here from Pawtucket with a party of excursionists. Otherwise things are rather quiet in the excursion line.

—There will be a swimming match Sunday, when Henry Munson and Fred Cratzel will try conclusions from Easton's to the Second beach.

—Charles W. Pascoe, a driver, is reported this afternoon to have fallen off his team, been run over and kicked by his horse. He was taken to his home.

—William Andrews, Jr., was appointed custodian of the property of William Andrews at a special session of the probate court Thursday afternoon.

—Bernard Gilmore of the Regent base ball team of Providence is spending a few days with Ralph and James O'Connell of the Trojans, on Channing street.

—Steamer Squantum of the Providence line lost a wheel up the bay Thursday and this morning was towed to the shipyard, where a new wheel will be put on.

—Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Hopkins of New York and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Ketterlinus of Philadelphia are guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Harkness on steam yacht Agawa.

—A court of inquiry into the collision between the Commonwealth and the New Hampshire was opened on board the Florida today, Rear Admiral Fiske acting as president.

—Thirty-footer Hera, owned by the estate of the late J. A. Garland, has been sold to Thomas J. H. Pirce of Providence. She will be launched from the shipyard Saturday and rigged at once.

—Mrs. John Carley and Miss Gertrude Carley have returned from a three weeks' trip to Canada. Mrs. Carley announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Florence Carley, to Mr. Allan Edgar Hurley of Washington, D. C.

—General Secretary E. O. Andrews and Assistant Secretaries Sharwell, Sutherlund and Ross, of the Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Association returned this morning from the employed officers' conference at Silver Bay, N. Y.

—An old structure used as a stable, on the south side of Dennis avenue, is being demolished. The property has become the property of the Newport Hospital and as it was dilapidated and of a sort dangerous to the neighborhood it is being taken out of the way.

—Miss Elsie Donovan of this city has been engaged to take charge of the Woman Suffrage headquarters on Franklin street, and will have Miss Alice O'Neill as her assistant. Miss Donovan is at present in charge of the Mary Street playground afternoons.

—Building Inspector Sullivan is looking for some one in authority about a new dental establishment which is being fitted up on Thames street. One of the early moves has been the placing in position of a swinging sign, and this the inspector says must come down.

—There was another still alarm at 11:04 this morning, which called Chemical 1 and Hose 4 to an old shed in the rear of 23 Collins street, owned by P. H. Horgan and occupied by nobody. The fire was slight and was readily extinguished by the Chemical.

—A whist tournament was started at the Miantuck Tennis Club's house Thursday, the winners being Miss Katherine Manchester, and Miss Edith Holland, tied for first place, and Miss Ellen Manchester second. The tournament will be played on Thursday afternoons for five weeks.

—The following have recently taken apartments at the "New Wilbur" cottage on Church street: Mrs. Butler, mother of Lieutenant Commander Butler of the Utah; Mrs. Putnam and daughter, of Bethel, Vt., the three Misses Southerland of New York and Mr. Holbrook of Port Washington, Long Island.

—Casino registers today include Foxhall Keene, Mrs. L. Jay Hammond, Miss Dorothy Hammett, Miss Margaret Hammett, Mr. and Mrs. W. Eugene Parsons, Miss LeBrun Parsons, Mrs. L. C. Logan, Captain James B. Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Harkness, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Hopkins, Mr and Mrs. J. L. Kettertinus, John Campbell Chadwick, F. B. Crowninshield and Alexander Keogh.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. Huntington Cooper of Los Angeles, Cal., Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Howe of Columbus, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Morris E. Weiss of New York, Mr. and S. E. Bailey of Springfield, Mass., Herbert A. Mellor of Atlantic City R. Donald Baker of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., W. A. Henry of Wallingford, Conn., and Fred E. Bauer of Philadelphia are registered at the Perry House.

—The sale of the Mrs. John Clinton Gray estate on Kay street is expected to attract considerable attention. This is one of the finest properties in the northern part of the city, comprising two acres of land, a large modern dwelling and stable, and would make an excellent place for a summer or all-the-year-round residence. Mrs. Gray has not occupied the house for several years, as she resides elsewhere, and it was rented for a number of seasons by the late William G. Roelker.

—The highway department has a roller on Church street, to make repairs to the roadbed between Spring street and Bellevue avenue. It has also been putting more dustoline on much used streets, where the surface was showing. These include Marlborough, West Marlborough and Farewell streets; Washington square, Franklin street, Harrison and Halidon avenue. A car of dustoline arrived this week, and what was not used is held in storage.

FREIGHT YARD TO BE IMPROVED.

Division Engineer Pierson Says Company Plans Many Changes.

Pleased with the Beach and Predicts Excursions Over the Railroad Next Year.

Division Engineer J. W. Pierson of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad came from Boston this forenoon in relation to the conditions which have existed so many years in the local freight yard. Mr. Ernst Voigt, for the local receivers of freight, met the visitor and a view of the yard was taken. Mr. Pierson had with him blue prints of proposed improvements and Mr. Voigt was well fortified with photographs of conditions as they have existed.

Mr. Pierson said frankly that there certainly had been good grounds for strenuous objections and that so long as he was in office no such conditions would exist again. For the local receivers it was admitted that matters had been very much improved, but before they had an opportunity to ask for anything further, in order to make the changes permanent, Mr. Pierson said the company is not yet through but proposes to do more work to hold the advantage gained.

It is the engineer's plan to put some crushed stone on top of the present foundation and give this a thorough rolling, to make a firm waterproof topping. In addition to this, it is the purpose to do general work to that part of the yard of Washington street, to retain the roadbed now there, and to improve it as well. It is his purpose to have all tracks and the freight shed approachable on firm ground, even in bad weather. More than that, he announced that the company is to build a house here for the section foreman where he can accommodate his men, and by having them on the scene give frequent attention to the railroad property and keep it free from litter. If conditions fail to be perfectly satisfactory, he said he would consider it a favor to be notified at once, and would give the matter his personal attention.

After going over the situation in the yard the visitor was taken to the beach, where he was served with a dinner which caused him to remark that he had come to Newport with the expectation of receiving some hard knocks, and had instead found an enjoyable outing. To the service at the beach dining room he paid a high compliment, and said the food could not be bettered, while the patrons were of the class one sees in a city hotel rather than the excursion type.

He marveled at the improvement wrought at the beach this year, and was sure that another year would see his company running excursions here, because there would be such a public demand for them that the capacity of the trains would be taxed each week. He considered that Newport now has an attraction which would warrant the company in doing considerable in providing service in excess of anything heretofore given. He seemed to think that there is now an attraction which cannot be hidden.

Mr. Pierson, being a busy man, allowed himself but two hours in Newport, but in that time he was not idle a moment. He said the visit had been so enjoyable that he would almost welcome another "kick," that he might come again. Yet he said he would not purposely allow any condition to develop for a kick, since he felt that the receivers of freight had been sufficiently sinned against. Mr. Voigt feels that, while it has taken a long time and much effort to reach the point where the company appreciates conditions, that point has now been attained and results will be prompt in realization.

CALLED THE POLICE GRAFTERS.

John L. Cummings Fined $2 and Costs for Remarks Made on a Public Thoroughfare.

Because he called the Newport police a lot of grafters, according to the testimony, John L. Cummings was sentenced to pay a fine of $2 and costs this morning, by Judge Franklin in the district court. The case grew out of an incident which occurred on Thames street recently, when Cummings stopped Inspector Tobin in regard to a pair of shoes stolen from his store. Cummings was told that the quickest way to recover them was to go to Flagg's pawnshop and pay for them. Then Cummings, according to testimony, said something to Inspector Tobin about the police being a lot of graffers, in league with the pawnbrokers, etc. "You're too crooked to lie straight in bed," said Inspector Tobin, as he took Cummings by the arm and escorted him to the police station.

George Rodda, a boy employed in Popple's shoe store, testified to overhearing Cummings make an insulting remark about the police.

Judge Burke appeared for Cummings and argued that the inspector, on duty as a police official, had no business to say that his client was crooked. He claimed that it was this remark by the inspector which led to the declaration by Cummings.

The court said that, even if there was provocation, Cummings had no right to condemn the police department or anybody else in the terms he did, on a public thoroughfare. It might mitigate the offense, but it would not excuse him. "I'll fine the defendant $2 and cost," said the judge, "and will add that if he doesn't pay it he will stay in jail until the legislature lets him out."

In another case against Cummings, for not registering the correct firm name as prescribed by the law, the defendant was discharged.

PUMPING FROM PARADISE.

Additional Water Supply Drawn Upon, and All Now Goes Through the Filter.

The new water main connecting the Paradise direct with the north or Green End pond has gone into commission and this week water is being pumped into the Green End from the Paradise ponds. Up to the present time the two Easton's ponds have supplied all the water which has been used and also have filtered. Now the Paradise ponds will supply a portion and this also will be filtered. Before this new main was laid the new filter could not be used for the water in the Paradise ponds, but this has been changed.

A year ago the Paradise ponds were called into use long before August 10, because the water was so low that the city could not be supplied from the Easton's ponds alone. There is a difference in the supply of last year and this.

With the connecting of the Paradise with the Easton's ponds no consumer need be afraid that the water supplied through the Water Works pipes has not been properly filtered, for it all goes through now.

CUSTER RELICS IN MUSEUM.

Scout Coat and Unique Sabre in Collection Donated and Lent by the General's Widow.

[Washington Star.]

An interesting collection has recently been installed in the hall of history in the National Museum, consisting of articles donated and lent by Mrs. George A. Custer, widow of Brevet Major General George A. Custer, U. S. A.

General Custer is probably best remembered for his achievements in the many Indian fights in which he participated, and by his record as an Indian scout. The collection includes a memento of this phase of his career, in the form of the white buckskin coat in which he has been most often pictured as a plainsman and scout. This coat is in excellent condition, and looks as if the general had just removed it and hung it up. It has deep collar and cuffs, and is heavily fringed with slashed buckskin trimmings. The pockets are made much as in modern sporting coats, while the buttons are of the regular army pattern of the period. This coat calls to mind the services General Custer rendered the government in the campaigns against the Sioux in 1875 and 1876, in the last of which, the battle of the Little Big Horn, he met his death. Accompanying the coat is a yellow plumed cavalry helmet and a buckskin gauntlet, both worn during his active service against the Indians from 1866 to 1876, while lieutenant colonel, seventh cavalry, U. S. A.

There is also a blue regulation army officer's coat, with two starred straps; plush collar and cuffs, the coat which he wore on the occasion of his marriage to Miss Elizabeth Bacon, February 9, 1864.

A straight cavalry sabre of tremendous size is also included in the collection. It was a spoil of war captured by Major Drew, who presented it to General Custer, since he knew of no other man able to wield such a large weapon. It has a Toledo blade on which is engraved in Spanish, "Do not draw me without cause, and do not sheathe me without honor."

A Virginia state flag, a prize of the general's personal prowess, captured by him in 1861 when a lieutenant, is also on exhibition. It is supposed to be the first standard captured by the Army of the Potomac.

One object of great historical significance, though of rather an unromantic nature, is half of a white towel that figured conspicuously in the battle just preceding the surrender of General Lee at Appomattox. It seems that while General Lee had gone to the rear of the Confederate lines to secure an interview with General Grant, leaving General Longstreet in command, General Gordon's division became hard pressed by the enemy and called on Longstreet for assistance. Not being able to furnish it at the time, Longstreet sent his inspector general, Major R. M. Simms, to suggest to Gordon the sending of a flag of truce to the Federals requesting a suspension of hostilities, pending the interview between Lee and Grant.

Following this suggestion, Gordon at once dispatched Simms to the Federal commander, Sheridan, with this request. As Major Simms galloped toward the lines of the Federals he searched his haversack for something white to cover his advance, but found only a towel. This he drew out and waved above his head as he approached the enemy. The Union soldiers caught sight of the white towel, held their fire, and under this improvised flag Simms was allowed to enter the lines, where he was met by Colonel Whittaker and taken to General Custer, who was in command of that part of the field. Neither of these officers, however, cared to declare a temporary cessation of hostilities just them, feeling that they had the advantage of the fight and held the southern army at their mercy.

So Simms was obliged to return to his own lines without accomplishing his purpose. He left the truce towel in the hands of Colonel Whittaker, who took half of it and gave the other portion to General Custer. It was only shortly after the incident just mentioned that Sheridan and Gordon met and established a temporary truce which held until the conference between Grant and Lee terminated the war.

Most important among this collection of war relics is a little oval table of wood, much battered and scarred, on which General Grant wrote the letter containing the terms of surrender of General Lee, at the home of Wilmer McLean, near Appomattox Court House, Va. Immediately after this event the table was purchased by General Sheridan and given to General Custer as a present for his wife. General Sheridan's letter of presentation, dated April 10, 1865, the day following the surrender, which is included in the collection, corroborates this statement.

The collection also includes a pin made from a piece of conch shell, once a button from the coat of General Washington, presented by a relative of the general to Custer. Later Custer had it mounted in gold for his wife, who wore it for many years as a brooch.

THINGS THAT COLOR THE SEA.

[Sailor's Magazine.]

It has been proven that the blueness of sea water is in constant ratio to its saltness. In the tropics, the tremendous evaporation induced by the blazing sun causes the water to be much more salt than it is in higher altitudes. For about 30 degrees, both north and south of the equator, the waters of the world's oceans are of an exquisite azure. Beyond these latitudes the blue fades and changes to green, and in the Arctic and Antarctic oceans the greens are almost as vivid as the tropical blues.

The extraordinary blueness of the Mediterranean has two causes; one is that very few large rivers of fresh water run into this sea; the second, the Mediterranean is practically landlocked, and, being exposed to a powerful sun, evaporation is great.

China's Yellow Sea is usually supposed to owe its origin to the flood of muddy water which its great rivers pour into it. But here living organisms are responsible for its peculiar tint.

THREE ENGLISH NONAGENARIANS.

[New York Evening Post.]

Last week three distinguished Englishmen celebrated their birthdays. Wednesday the Right Hon. Earl Nelson, "Father of the House of Lords," entered his ninetieth year. Lord Nelson is a descendant of the hero of Trafalgar, is president of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew in England, and an honorary life member of the Canadian Society of New York. This society is a national one.

Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, High Commissioner for Canada in London, was 91 years old Tuesday. He is an honorary life member of the British Schools and Universities Club, New York. Right Rev. Dr. Courtney of this city, formerly Bishop of Nova Scotia, is the president of the Club.

Last Monday the Right Hon. Earl of Wymess entered his ninety-fifth year. He has lived under six sovereigns. This remarkable trio are hale and hearty.

RAILROAD TELEPHONES.

Turn a Great System Into Chessboard for Train Despatchers.

Portable Apparatus Facilitates the Movement of Traffic in Numerous Instances.

As a chess player sits at his table, with all his little carved men before him, and moves them this way and that, so does the train despatcher of today see with his mind's eye the dozens of trains moving under his command. Whether they be at stations, on lonely sidings, or halted on stretches of track in the open country, he is constantly "in touch." And the innovation that has brought this about, that turns a great railroad system into a sort of chessboard for the men at division headquarters, is the telephone.

It has not been so for long, and it is not so yet on many thousand miles of track in the United States. The portable telephone, with which a train crew or section gang can call up the despatcher from anywhere along the line, is still a novelty. And the active operating men, on the railroads equipped with telephones, have not yet begun to take them as a matter of course; they are still comparing the new way with the old.

That trains should be held up occasionally is inevitable. Even with the most thorough inspection an engine rod may break, a flue may burst, a brake beam may come loose. Such an accident is usually not serious, but it often means a long delay, not only to the one train but to many others. It disarranges the plans of the railroad men, annoys passengers, and may bring an actual money loss to shippers and consignees. No improvement in recent years has gone so far toward nullifying the effect of these breakdowns as the introduction of the telephone in railroad operation.

A long freight train may be making its way along a mountain-side in the dead of night. Some little accident occurs—a bolt is broken, a wheel under one car leaves the rail, or maybe a big boulder has rolled down upon the track ahead. The conductor of the train discovers what has happened, brings the portable telephone apparatus from the caboose, connects with the wires along the right of way by means of an extension pole, and in less than two minutes is talking with the despatcher. The despatcher not only sends prompt relief; with a few brief orders over the telephone he changes the movements of other trains—orders one to wait, another to move on to a siding near-by the stalled train, and sends a passenger flyer past on the other track.

Where the telephone is not used the despatcher does not know anything has happened to the freight until he learns it by telegraph. And that is after one of the train crew has reached the nearest telegraph office, perhaps on foot through a snowstorm. If the office is a small one, open only part of the 24 hours, the operator may have to be aroused out of bed. Meanwhile no relief is speeding on its way, and passenger and freight trains are slowly "piling up" behind. There they stay until the mending is done; or if they are to be sent around on the other track, they must crawl slowly back to the next cross-over switch.

The Lehigh Valley road, one of the first to authorize the installation of the new system, has equipped its main line and many of its branch lines with telephone despatching circuits, and all its trains with portable telephone apparatus. Not only this but portable telephones, with the 18-foot sectional "fish poles," have been supplied to bridge and rail-laying gangs, track supervisors, work trains, tool trains, train masters and superintendents.

More than 80 so-called siding telephones have been placed in booths, and freight houses are connected with the telephone-despatching circuits. In every case the telephone is under switch lock. The booth is equipped with a shelf, train order blanks and a metal box in which to deposit copies of train orders received. These siding telephones are placed at points where under former circumstances telegraph operators were not employed and where trains were delayed for lack of information. When the work now planned is done there will be 150 of these siding telephones along the Lehigh Valley.

The new system provides communication not only during the hours of duty but every hour of the day. By arrangement with the commercial telephone companies along the line the railroad circuits can be linked up to outside lines, and any official of the road can be called at his residence at night. The train master, yard master, superintendent, even the general manager or vice president or president, can be called if anything happens to require his advice, just as a city doctor can be called to a sick bed in the night.

The use of portable telephones by bridge and rail-laying gangs, work trains and track supervisors has increased considerably the amount of work that can be done by the maintenance of way forces in a day. The men along the right of way are kept posted by despatchers as to the running of scheduled trains and are thereby able to work on a much closer margin. For example, before telephones were installed a gang of trackmen had to pick up their tools and stand aside when a train was due. If it was 10 or 15 minutes late, that much time was wasted. Now if it is late they are notified by telephone and can stay at their job.

Not long ago a rail-laying gang on the eastbound main line track were about to suspend work because an east-bound passenger train was due. The foreman had a portable telephone apparatus. He called up the despatcher's office, asked about the passenger train and received this reply: "Twenty-five minutes late." He told his men to keep at work. Without the telephone they would have had to stand idle 25 minutes, expecting every instant to hear the whistle of the locomotive.

The occasions on which the portable apparatus on board trains facilitates the movement of traffic are too numerous to be catalogued. Sometimes it is a small saving of time effected, sometimes an hour or more. Sometimes, even, the possibility of quick communication prevents an accident. Not far from Wilkesbarre, Pa., a month or two ago, some of the men in a section gang, as they stood and watched a freight train pass, noticed that a brake beam was hanging loose. The despatcher was immediately notified by telephone, the train was flagged at the next station, and the damaged car was taken out.

An instance of how passengers may benefit from the telephone system on railroads was afforded last spring when a "mixed" train was blocked on a siding by the derailment of a freight car. The despatcher, being notified, sent a locomotive and a car to transfer the passengers and then arranged for a steam "wrecker" to proceed to the scene of the mishap. An official of the company, speaking of this occurrence, said that without the telephone a delay of several hours might have been caused by the derailment. As it was, the time lost was only a few minutes.

Each one of the achievements of the telephone in time-saving may not be startling in itself. The sum total of what the new system accomplishes, however, is such as to give the patrons of the telephone-equipped railroad a great advantage. In a "rush" season when facilities are strained by the volume of traffic, constant telephonic communication may be just what is needed to "turn the trick," to turn what would be bad service into good service. And in ordinary times it makes good service still better.

The installation of telephones for despatching on the Lehigh Valley railroad began on the Mahanoy & Hazleton division, in the anthracite coal district of Pennsylvania. Here the number of small branch lines, connections with the mines, made particularly valuable a faultless system of communication particularly valuable. The success of telephones being established in the coal region, the company started in to equip its main line from New York harbor westward. The installation has been made now as far west as Manchester, N. Y., and soon the entire line to Buffalo will be included in the telephone circuit.

LECTURE ON THE USE OF THE CORSET.

An interesting lecture and demonstration was given Thursday evening in the Lappin Store by Madame Mills, a New York corsetiere. She talked on the history of the corset, describing how in olden times a certain figure was prescribed for women and a casing of inflexible materials, even of iron, was devised to mold her form regardless of pain or actual injury. Nowadays corsets are comfortable and pliable, made to bring out the beauties of the figure and assist in overcoming defects. The lecture was illustrated by the aid of six living models. More than 150 women were present and light refreshments were served by the clerks.

QUEENSLAND TO RIVAL CHICAGO.

As evidencing the increasing attention which is being directed to Queensland as a cattle-raising country, a large Anglo-American firm has purchased a site on the Brisbane river, and proposes to erect there, at a cost of $1,700,000, the most complete meat works in the world, capable of treating 600 cattle and 500 sheep daily. On the completion of the Panama canal it is not improbable that chilled meat will be shipped to the United States.

for young sailors. Athletic fields, large and well supervised dance halls, good and cheap theatres, airy and good eating places, band concerts, open-air religious services with good music and other similar enterprises would easily substitute the saloon and houses of prostitution.

"If Newport wants the boys to spend their money within the city limits they must place before them such wholesome attractions as would protect them against disease and exploitation as they are entitled to. To say that the sailors want the amusements offered them in Newport is an insult to the manhood of the American navy and we hope that the city officials of next year will realize that fact."

Women, whose hands were their humiliation, now take pride in their soft whiteness, the result of using Welcome Laundry Soap.

So today there is twice as much Welcome Soap sold in New England as any other brand, because it protects the hands as well as finest fabrics. Gets the wash out fast and makes the clothes bright as a new dollar.

One reason for this is the fact that there is five times as much Borax used in Welcome as in all other New England laundry soaps put together—just enough to perfectly soften the water and to make Welcome do more than any other soap.

A big cake 5c—of your grocer. You owe it to your hands and to your clothes to try Welcome today.

Your grocer will give your money back if you can find a better laundry soap.

Gala Night at New Casino—Ball on Board the Florida and Dance on the Alabama.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

The results of Thursday's play in the tennis tournament at the Golf and Country Club courts was as follows:

Semi-Finals.

Kyle beat Stork, 4-6, 6-1, 6-1.
Sands beat Drew, 7-9, 6-1, 6-3.

Second Round, Ladies' Tournament.

Miss A. Downing beat Mrs. Stork, 6-4, 6-3.
Mrs. Welbridge beat Miss S. Lippincott, 6-2, 6-1.
Miss Green beat Miss Cate, 6-2, 6-0.
Miss H. Downing beat Mrs. Lewis, 6-3, 6-3.

Thursday was a gala night at the new Casino and the young people enjoyed dancing to the music of the Kansas band, which was loaned for the evening. There were crowds on the ballroom floor, while the porches were over-crowded. Miss Abbott entertained at a dinner party at the Thorndike, her guests going afterwards to the Casino.

The ball on board the Florida Thursday afternoon was the largest and one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season. Two bands played during the afternoon and dancing was continuous.

The midshipmen of the Alabama gave a dance on board the ship this afternoon.

Miss Chase is visiting Mrs. Albert Gleavea at her apartment in "Harmony Villa".

Miss Goodwin of Washington is visiting Mrs. Witherspoon at her cottage at Potter's cove.

There will be the usual Friday evening hop at the Gardner House this evening.

Miss Britton and Miss Martin have returned to Narragansett after a week at the Bay View.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Riggs left Thursday evening for their home in Baltimore.

Ground was broken Thursday for a cottage for Mr. W. H. Brooks on Clinton avenue.

A "JEAN VALJEAN" IN REAL LIFE.

Philadelphia Councilman Resigns Seat and Tells of Career of Crime.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16.—A "Jean Valjean" in real life was disclosed here today, when William Burke, elected a city councilman on the reform ticket, headed by Mayor Blankenburg last fall, resigned his seat and told how, under the name of Benjamin H. Tripp, he had served a long term in the Massachusetts state prison, after a career of crime in Boston and New York.

Coming to this city in 1907, after completing his sentence in the Massachusetts state prison, Burke carried an honest living as a wood carver, a trade he had learned while in jail. Taking an active interest in reform politics, he was prevailed upon to accept the nomination to councils. Shortly after his election he was recognized by a fellow convict and blackmailed until, driven to desperation, he determined to resign and tell his story.

According to Burke's story, appearing in the Philadelphia Inquirer today under his signature, for years before he became a convict at Boston he had led the life of a thief, a pickpocket, a yeggman and a porch climber. When he was arrested, previous to his conviction at Boston, he was called the "Prince of flat workers." He says he started in life as a street waif on the East Side of New York, selling newspapers. He was hanging around the corners of the East Side when he began that life of a crook which he now, about in the forty-third year, had confessed to.

REBELS RETREATING.

Presence of American Forces Relieves Situation in Managua.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Aug. 16.—(Delayed in transmission) Captain Terhune, commander of United States gunboat Annapolis, with the force of American marines composed of 11 officers and 354 men, which arrived at Corinto yesterday from Panama on United States collier Justin, arrived in the capital today. The combined force of American bluejackets and marines now numbers nearly 470 officers and men, and their presence has greatly relieved the situation. The bombardment of the city by the rebels under General Mena and Zaledon ceased this morning. The rebels are now retreating from the city.

MARINES LAND AT MANAGUA.

Americans at Matagalpa Must Prepare to Protect Themselves.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The 360 marines landed by collier Justin at Corinto have been sent to Managua to re-inforce the bluejackets from gunboat Annapolis. Americans and other foreigners at Matagalpa have been informed by the government authorities that they must be prepared to protect themselves.

OROZCO EVACUATES JUAREZ.

Rebels Left to Reserve Order Until Arrival of Federal Troops.

JUAREZ, Mexico, Aug. 16.—General Orozco evacuated Juarez today, leaving behind a small rebel guard to preserve order until the arrival of the Federal troops. The guards looted the customs house, but secured no money. The American and German consuls organized a citizen's committee to protect the city. All saloons and most of the stores were closed. United States border patrols stopped all traffic from the American side.

COOLER WEATHER.

That welcome change came this morning, when a cooling breeze came out from th north and th mrury took a drop f about 10 degrees compared with Thursday. The wind seemed to freshen some as the day wore on and was a rather lively breeze this afternoon. The thermometer this noon was 16 degrees below the figure of Thursday noon. The hygrometer showed only 45, or very much less humidity than had been recorded for some time. Everything combined to make things feel the fine for those who thought it was hot.

THE FLEET PREPARING TO SAIL.

Thursday was practically the last liberty day for the ships in Newport for about a month. The whole fleet will clear from here Saturday, there are comparatively few men ashore today and there will be but few this evening. All go south for target practice, but after they have performed this duty they will return here to await the New York review. The San Francisco will go to Norfolk, her home station, but it is understood that after this trip her home will be changed to Portsmouth, N. H. The submarines will leave next week for Provincetown, where they will engage in torpedo practice.

From September 25 to October 5 the entire Atlantic fleet will make their base in Narragansett bay for general exercises, and during the fall, while the divisional cruises are on, it is quite likely that Newport will see more or less of the ships.

MISKIANA LODGE'S ANNUAL DINNER.

The annual dinner of Miskiana Lodge took place Thursday in the wilds of central Rhode Island, where the lodge is situated in a vast wilderness of silence. This was rudely broken Thursday, for there were people there from almost everywhere—politicians and others who could make a noise even if they did not say much. In all there were about 60 present, of whom about 20 were from Newport. The dinner was fine, the day was beautiful and the guests thoroughly enjoyed themselves. It was one of those perfect days, hot until one went into the shade of one of these trees so abundant about the camp, and then the true meaning of shade was appreciated.

POLICE NOTES.

The police had two girls before the court this morning, one charged with being lewd and wanton and the other with being a night walker. They pleaded guilty and were sentenced to one year in the state workhouse. One came from Fall River and the other from Tiverton. The latter had pleaded not guilty Thursday morning, but retracted her plea. She said she wished to be away from her father.

There were three men up for drunkenness, who pleaded guilty. One paid his fine, the other two went to jail.

Reports of depredations by soldiers to gardens near the fort have reached the station. If soldiers pillage market gardens and take the vegetables to the fort there should be little trouble in apprehending them.

FOLLOWED HIM INTO THE SURF.

Wife, Trying to Prevent Husband from Spending His Money, Causes Excitement at the Beach.

Thursday evening there was a little excitement at the west end of the beach because of domestic troubles. A man had received some money and was engaged in "blowing it in." His wife struck his trail, with the intention of securing what funds had not already been spent for liquor and otherwise foolishly. She pressed him so hard that finally, to escape, he dashed into the water. She was not to be thrown off thus and followed him. When they were in about breast deep she succeeded in overhauling him and the two fell in the struggle which ensued. Two sailors went into the water and pulled out the struggling couple, a beach officer took the drunken man in charge, and he was later sent home in a carriage, perhaps wiser for his experience.

PHOTOGRAPHIC STUDIO MOVED TO THE BEACH.

There is another photographic establishment on the beach. The old studio on wheels, which did its last duty just off Franklin street, where perhaps some forgot that it was on wheels, went to Middletown Thursday, having been sold and taken just over the creek, where it will go into commission again. There was some question if it would reach its destination, as it seemed at times that it was likely to stop on the highway, and need to be removed in sections, but it held together and successfully reached its new location. Just what business there can be where the gallery is located is a mystery, but the man who is trying the experiment will have an opportunity to learn.

POLO SATURDAY AND NEXT WEEK.

The report that the Meadow Brook polo team would be unable to play at the local grounds today proved to be correct and there will be no game there this afternoon.

Saturday there will be a special match, for which are available Messrs. August Belmont, Raymond Belmont, Morgan Belmont, Arthur S. Burden, William A. Hazard, J. A. Rawlins, E. D. Morgan, Jr., and perhaps Eugene S. Reynal. There should be some good playing if the sides are evenly balanced, as they probably will be.

Monday the Polo Association matches are scheduled to begin at the Westchester Polo Club grounds. There were no Association matches last summer, but this year more life has been injected into local polo interests and there will be, as in years gone by, Association matches. The program has been prepared at Association headquarters, but the arrangements had not been received here at last reports.

TO START AT EAST GREENWICH.

Race Week to Open There Saturday, and Local Yachts Will be Included.

The Barrington Yacht Club, Commodore Easton, which was here to see the New York Yacht Club fleet and which had the Sagamore to take the members out for the King's cup race, sailed this morning for Wickford, where there was to be a base ball game this afternoon.

It will probably reach East Greenwich Saturday. All sea routes known to the bay yachtsmen will lead thither, for the race week of 1912 will start there Saturday afternoon, with races for all classes. The other dates are: Monday, Rhode Island Yacht Club, off Pawtuxet; Tuesday, Edgewood Yacht Club, of Edgewood; Wednesday, long-distance race from the Edgewood Yacht Club, does not count for championship; Thursday, with Fall River Yacht Club, off Fall River; Friday, with Connanicut Yacht Club, off Jamestown. Saturday, with Newport Yacht Club off this place.

There promises to be a big gathering of yachts and yachtsmen at East Greenwich and there will be a large number from here in power boats, for there will be a good time, Mr. Hirst's Arrow and Mr. Emmons's Quakeress are hauled out at Williams & Manchester's to prepare for race week, and Mr. Wood's Columbia and Mr. Chace's Idler have already painted and prepared there for the races. All will go up the bay Saturday for the start.

FISHING NOT VERY LIVELY.

The herring fishermen landed 50 barrels Thursday night, which went to New York. They might have had more, but there was a scarcity of barrels. The Fisheries company landed 40 barrels, which went into cold storage. This company, using a seine too deep for the waters where the fish were, had its seine torn.

The other fishing is rather flat. Thursday C. B. Anderson had a roe sturgeon which weighed 340 pounds and was worth more money than many barrels of herring. He also had some mackerel and some mixed fish and sea robins. Today he had about the same, minus the sturgeon, the most valuable part. There were several arrivals of mackerel. The Clara T. had 8, the Thomas B. Congdon 8, the Maude Gertrude 6 and the Hester 5 barrels of mackerel and the Hester had one swordfish.

Noon—Trading on the Exchange today was almost the dullest of the week, with a tendency toward reaction. Leading issues ruled under yesterday's final prices in the first hour, but made some recovery toward noon. Coppers and equipment issues were exceptions to the general trend. Canadian Pacific abruptly declined 2 points and American Tobacco fell almost 6 points. The movement as a whole reflected nothing quite so much as public and professional indifference. Bonds were easy.

FOR THE TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

Preparations Being Made at the Casino and Prizes Placed on Exhibition.

Preparations are being made at the Casino for the national lawn tennis tournament, which will begin next Monday morning and continue during the following eight or nine days. The large grand stand, south of the championship court has been put in place and the new stand, which the governors provided for last winter, is being put up at the west of this court. This will add between 400 and 500 reserved seats to the capacity of the stands. Practically all the reserved seats have been sold.

The prizes offered by the United States National Lawn Tennis Association for the tournament, which have been placed on exhibition in the lobby of the Casino, include the massive silver loving cup given as the championship trophy, on which William A. Larned won a leg last year. This is a three-year cup and must be won by one player three times, not necessarily in succession, to become his property. Larned's name is the only one on it at present, and as he will not defend his title this year a new name will be put on the trophy after the coming tournament.

There is also a first or all-comer's prize, a vase cup of about 18 inches in height, of simple Colonial design with handles square at the tops, and without chasing or decoration. The second prize, which will go to the runner-up, is a silver bowl, about 12 inches in diameter, with a heavily embossed floral design around its sides. The fourth trophy is that for the interscholastic championship, which will be played during the national tournament. It is a tall, slender vase of silver with a raised inscription encircled by laurel leaves and of chaste and pleasing design. The three last-named trophies will become the property of the winners in this tournament.

There are also in the case the two tall silver ewers given by the National Association for the doubles championship. These were won for the first time last year, G. F. Touchard and R. D. Little having their names inscribed upon them as the champions of 1911. They must be won three years by the same pair, and Touchard and Little will defend them against McLoughlin and Bundy, the winners of the preliminary contests in the opening days of the tournament.

The silver racquet, the trophy offered by the Newport Casino, for the championship in singles, is also on exhibition. It bears the name of W. A. Larned, and must be won two years by the same player.

The Newport Golf Club, as last year, has given a cup to be played for by the tennis players at the Golf Club during the tournament. It is a handsomely wrought three-handled loving cup, 10 inches high, and is to be given to the tennis player who makes the best score at golf between August 19 and 27. It can be seen with the other tennis prizes.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

Commodore and Mrs. James Entertain on the Aloha—Dinners and Luncheons.

Miss Anna Sands and Mrs. Barger-Wallach entertained at luncheon Thursday afternoon, and dinners were given in the evening by Commodore and Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Wilson, Mrs. Hamilton McK. Twombly, Mrs. Stuart Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. John Sanford, Mrs. Andrew B. McKinney and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander D. B. Pratt.

Commodore and Mrs. James entertained on board their yacht Aloha, Peter Newton giving a number of his sleight-of-hand tricks after the dinner. The magician, dressed as a Chinese mandarin, was rowed to the yacht in a small boat decorated with Chinese lanterns, a musician playing a flute in the bow as the boat approached. The table decorations consisted of a miniature of the Aloha under full sail handsomely decorated with flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Sanford entertained at the Picard cottages in honor of Senator George Peabody Wetmore and the Misses Wetmore.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson had 60 guests, who were seated in the dining room and in an enclosed veranda. After the tableaux at the Casino they returned with their guests for supper, which was served under a tent on the lawn at the Wilson cottage. All the dinner hosts took their guests to the tableaux.

ELECTRIC STREET-SWEEPERS.

[Electrical Review and Western Electrician.]

The municipality of Berlin has found electrically driven machines for cleaning the streets much cheaper than the old horse carts. There are now 24 storage-battery machines in use. The electric machines do so much more work that each machine is supposed to save about $1.33 a day by comparison with a horse-driven water-cart.

REPRODUCE FAMOUS PICTURES.

Tableaux Illustrate the Work of Many Distinguished Artists.

Large Gathering and Many Participants in the St. John's Church Entertainment.

St. John's Church will receive a good sum from the tableaux given at the Casino Theatre Thursday evening under the direction of Mrs. Hamilton Fish Webster, Miss Maude K. Wetmore and Miss Lydia Redmond. The pretty little white and gold theatre was well filled with the summer residents, boxes being arranged in the north gallery and the new one constructed last winter on the south side of the auditorium. The audience was seated by an efficient corps of ushers, including Mr. Stuyvesant LeRoy French as chief and Messrs. Casimir DeRham, William DeRham, Charles Warren Lippitt, Jr., Alexander Parmun Lippitt and T. Archer Morgan. Programs were sold by Misses Rose B. Dolan, Alexandra Dolan, Anita Grosvenor and Alice Gordon Drexel.

The tableaux were arranged by Mr. William Sergeant Kendall and his skill was effectively evidenced in the costuming and posing of the participants. The pictures were shown in large gilt frames and were in general reproductions of famous paintings by equally well known artists.

The first tableau was a reproduction of Jules Breton's "The Return from the Field (Le Retour des Champs)," with Mrs. Samuel J. Wagstaff, Miss Marguerite Masta and Miss Dorothea Carroll in peasant costumes. The incidental music by Conrad's orchestra was an early German composition, "Shepherd Dance."

The second showed Miss Mildred Rives and Mr. J. H. N. Potter, posed as shepherd and shepherdess in Dresden costumes, looking very much like two pieces of Dresden statuary. For this the orchestra rendered Gye's "Louis XVI" and "Amaryllis."

In the next Miss Eugenie Ladenburg, wearing a pale blue robe with silk drapery, represented an Angel by Fra Angelico. The incidental music was Rubinstein's "Kamenoi Ostrow."

Miss Rose Phinney Grosvenor represented Burne-Jones's portrait of Sidonia Van Bork, the orchestra rendering "Sizilietta."

Mr. Robert L. Keeling and Mrs. Andrew B. McKinney posed as "Pygmalion and Galatea," in Grecian costume, Mrs. Kinney appearing as the statue. The music for this number was Marie's "La Cinquetaine."

The next tableau showed the largest group of the evening, Miss Helena Fish, Miss Marguerite Andrews, Miss Bird, Messrs. L. Stuyvesant Chanler and Louis S. Bruguiere and Master Stuyvesant LeRoy French representing a group of young people at a fishing party, reproducing Moriand's picture, "An Angling Party." The orchestra rendered an old English air appropriate to the picture.

Mr. Ivan Dmitrow of the Russian embassy and Mr. Newton Adams were posed as pieces of Chinese porcelain, wearing Chinese garments brought from Pekin. The orchestra rendered "A Chinese Episode."

Miss Katharine Bulkeley Lawrence gave a study in black and white, representing "The Toilet of Pierrette," the orchestra giving Chaminade's "Pierret" as incidental music.

The next tableau showed Mrs. Richard Stevens posing as "A Bird of Paradise," wearing a strikingly handsome Oriental costume of black and gold. The incidental music was Friml's "Oriental Air."

Mr. Daniel LeRoy Dresser and Mrs. Oliver Perrin, in Indian costumes, reproduced MacDowell's painting "Indian Sunset."

The concluding picture showed Mrs. Arthur Iselin seated at a spinnet and was one of the most pleasing of the evening. She wore a Colonial costume copied from a painting of her grandmother, the late Mrs. John Jay, the title of the picture being "Grandmother's Portrait." Then music appropriately was Mozart's "Grandmother's Minuet."

Mrs. Newton Adams was to have appeared in a reproduction of a portrait by Bordonnie, but was prevented by sudden illness. Mrs. Adams had been in Providence during the day and on her return found that the heat had so affected her that it was thought inadvisable for her to appear in the tableau.

FOR THE SALVATION ARMY OUTING.

The Salvation Army has tried "standing" with the tripod and kettle, in the interest of the outing for poor children and mothers, on Bellevue avenue. The report is that Thames Street passers give more. There are but a few days left and the contributions are not yet as large as will be needed to pay for the car ride and buy the good things to eat, so that a really good time may be provided. Mrs. Gibbs offered the use of Bethshan-in-the-Woods" some weeks ago, and the work of arranging for the outing was taken up as soon as the officers returned from their furlough.

NO FUNDS IN SIGHT.

Committee Unable to Find Any Money for Waste Barrels and Street Signs.

The Board of Aldermen weekly meeting Thursday evening Mayor Boyle presiding and all the members present, was uneventful. Perhaps the leading feature was the financial bar put on the plan to supply waste barrels for the streets, suggested by the committee which recently conferred with Mayor Boyle.

The regular pay rolls were approved for the following sums: Streets and highways, $3,543.24; police, $1,077.40; fire department, $547.24; city officers, $252.35; firemen in theatres, $48.

The second quarterly report of the chif of police was received.

A communication was received from the executive committee of the Newport Improvement Association, signed by F. P. Garrettson, which stated that at a meeting of the committee held August 10 it was voted unanimously to request the Board of Aldermen to grant no more permits for the placing of poles or stringing of wires on the public streets.

There were two applications for permits to peddle, one from Geon Saruvian and one from David Habouch. Both were new and both were laid on the table.

A petition to have Whitwell avenue declared public highway, after more than 300 years of public use, was received.

Raymond Hamilton Wetherell applied for a license as a private detective. The mayor asked if any one knew him and the city clerk said he was a good-looking young man, who talked well and was prepossessing in appearance, that was the extent of the information available. The mayor thought more should be known about a candidate for such a position. It was suggested that a bond must be given by any one taking up this line of work, and the board has already appointed two. The mayor, however, felt that something should be known about the applicant and suggested that he personally appear before the board. The application was laid on the table pending the appearance of the applicant.

A. Cappuccilli was granted a renewal of intelligence office license.

Alderman Shepley, from the committee on waste barrels and street signs, reported that the city treasurar had informed him that there is no money available for the purpose and he saw nothing to do. The report of the committee was received and the committee discharged. Nothing was said about the possible cost of the work indicated, and there is no basis for an estimate as to what it would cost to put in barrels and put signs, as requested by the committee which saw the mayor.

There being no further business, the board at 8:07 adjourned.

MUSIC AND READINGS.

Concert at the Swedish M. E. Church Has a Large and Appreciative Audience.

The concert given at the Swedish Methodist Episcopal Church Thursday evening by the Alpha Quartet was enjoyed by an appreciative and good-sized audience. It was a musical evening exclusively, and the selections rendered were of such high standard as to satisfy the most critical. One of the aims of this church has long been to cultivate a desire for good music. A pleasing addition to the program were the readings of Miss Lillian E. Maher.

The Alpha Quartet comprised C. H. Kalquist and A. J. Maycock, violins; Carl Anderson, cornet, and A. A. Soderman, piano. The quintet was the same, with the addition of Louis R. Chase, flute. The program was as follows:

Overture, Goddess of Night — Allen
Alpha Quartet
Vocal Solo, Sleep, Oh Sleep — Brackett
Miss Alma H. Hord.
Cornet Duet:
(a) Miserere from 'Il Trovatore' — Verdi
(b) Larboard Watch — Williams
Carl Anderson, C. H. Kalquist
Reading — Miss Maher.
Alpha Quartet:
(a Russian Fantasia — Smith
(b) On Guard — Dierig
Vocal Solo, Hold Thou My Hand — Briggs
Carl Anderson
Cornet Duet, Sextet from 'Lucia' — Donizetti
Reading — Miss Maher
Quintet:
(a) Hungarian Dance No. 3 — Brahms
(b) Polaire — Belcher
Flute Solo, Fantasia — Kohler
Mr. Louis R. Chase
Quintet, Manrico — Bennet

DESTROYERS BACK FROM FALL RIVER.

The torpedo boat destroyers which have been at Fall River came down Thursday night and anchored in the outer harbor. The men say they were well received in the Spindle City, but many of them would rather step off at Newport. The best dock which could be given them for landing provided no ladders and the men soiled themselves in climbing to the cap log, while they remark at the length and steepness of the hills before they could reach the main street. From the time the boats left here until they returned they received no mail, as for some reason the mail was held awaiting their return.

THE SITUATION NO BETTER.

Carol Aronovici Declares That Illegal Places Are Running Openly.

Wholesome Attractions in Newport Should be Provided For the Soldiers and Sailors.

[Providence Tribune.]

Carol Aronovici, who has been prominent in the social research work at Newport, has returned to town after a short vacation. After reading the reports of the investigations being made in Newport relative to gambling and other vice he made a statement in which he says the situation there is no better than it was when the investigation was begun and that illegal places are in operation. The statement follows:

"About two weeks ago, after an examination of the conditions in Newport I telegraphed the governor asking him what action he would take in closing up the houses of prostitution and gambling dens in Newport. He replied that we would have to communicate with the mayor first. Previous to that a registered letter had been sent to the mayor of the city of Newport by the survey committee stating the names and addresses of certain of the objectionable places within the city, but so far no reply has been received.

"Within the last two weeks we have had men gathering information in Newport and we have been told that another agency is also working in the same field. Whether the men are Burns men or not I am unable to say.

"The situation in Newport as it presents itself at the present time is not better than it was at the time the investigation was started. At least three houses of prostitution are running so openly as to be a disgrace to the sense of decency of any citizen. Long wharf seems to have become the centre of vice and illegal liquor selling, and if the police authorities were blindfolded they could not help knowing what is going on. Illegal liquor selling, selling after hours, is again going on, while the gambling houses on Bath road and Williams street are conducting a paying business.

"If any one has engaged the Burns Detective Agency to carry on an investigation into the conditions in Newport they are to be congratulated upon the undertaking and I hope that the responsible parties will be discovered and compelled to obey the law. This bureau is not a detective agency and whatever facts have come to our attention have been so obvious as not to require detective methods. We have a map of the city of Newport indicating the places which are conducting illegal resorts, but these resorts are so well known to the general public of Newport as not to require any further publicity.

"Newport is dependent upon the naval and military stations for a good deal of its business. The soldiers and sailors are wanted there and the feeling prevails that amusements should be provided for them. The question arises does the city provide proper amusements for the thousands of sailors who are periodically dumped upon the city on shore leave. This is as much a social problem as it a moral issue. Young men compelled to live on board ship for weeks at a time require vast recreational opportunities when on leave. This seems to be taken to mean houses of prostitution, drunkenness and gambling. A community with a saner conception of what recreation means than the city officials of Newport would appoint a body of competent men to study carefully the situation and recommend a plan which would meet the present needs of the community.

"It is a sad comment upon the American navy to find that decent girls will not dance with its sailors and that a tirade of criticism is directed against a vast army of young men whose main sin is health and a desire for recreation. It was pathetic to see, a week ago last Saturday, decent sailor boys hanging around the dance hall at the beach and being refused a dance by the girls in the hall.

"Playing checkers at the Young Men's Christian Association and riding in the merry-go-rounds are not healthful or desirable amusements

THE WATER LILY BOY.

Francis Haggerty of Wickford Has Built Up a Permanent and Profitable Trade.

Water lilies picked fresh every morning from a pond near Wickford are brought to Newport daily, and the "water lily boy" passing through the streets with them in a basket on his bicycle is a familiar sight to most everybody. While Francis Haggerty is only 29, he is really a veteran in his line, for he has been in the business of picking and delivering these flowers to Newport people for 13 years. He sold his first lilies in Newport, 18 years ago, when only 11 years old.

Every summer Haggerty comes to Newport and he has been in the business so long that he has built up a permanent, profitable trade. As with many larger enterprises, the water lily business had an inconspicuous beginning with Haggerty. One day a circus was due to show in Newport and Haggerty and another Wickford boy decided to see it. It was proposed that they take over some of the lilies which were so plentiful in the neighborhood and sell them, thereby securing the money for their tickets. They finally disposed of them after some difficulty, receiving sufficient to buy tickets and have a little extra besides for spending money. This set young Haggerty to thinking and it wasn't long before he made another excursion to Newport with more lilies. Each year he enlarged his acquaintance, until he developed a regular line of customers.

In winter Haggerty works in the mill at Belleville as a weaver. Through the kindness of the foreman he gives up the job there each summer and is taken back in the fall. Belleville is a little factory village and Haggerty is the oldest of a family of seven, who work in the mill, excepting his younger brother, who helps him in preparing the flowers for market. Sometimes he brings over as many as 500 a day. Of late years he has also brought sweet peas, of which he raises a large number for his Newport customers.

It requires rising very early and much hard work to gather and pick the lilies. Haggerty is out in his skiff, wearing rubber boots, every morning before daybreak, rising anywhere from 2:30 to 3:45, and it is 9:30 or 10 o'clock before he is back to Wickford from the day's work. Bedtime comes soon after, naturally, in order to be up in time next morning.

The pond in which the lilies grow is located in the village of Belleville about 1 3-4 miles northwest of Wickford, and is fed by innumerable springs flowing into it. The same pond also furnishes power for the mill, the supply used keeping the water at a certain level.
